To Whom It May Concern:

By way of introduction, my name is Nick Bollettieri. I founded the Nick Bollettieri Tennis Academy (NBTA) in 1978 as a full-time tennis boarding school dedicated to preparing students for college within an environment that combined intense tennis training with a specially designed academic curriculum. The Academy's success is largely credited to the Academy's approach with preparing the athletes by combining specialized performance (fitness) training and mental conditioning programming with the technical training on the court.

Today, the NBTA is a part of the prestigious IMG Academies, the most successful and diversified multi-sport training complex in the world. I have personally worked with and coached nine #1 tennis players in the world including Andre Agassi, Boris Becker, Jim Courier, Martina Hingis, Marcelo Rios, Monica Seles, Maria Sharapova, Venus Williams and Serena Williams.

I am writing this letter in recommendation of my good friend and colleague, Toby Foxcroft. Mr. Foxcroft has worked, represented and executed successfully for myself and IMG Academies in USA and Europe.

I am very enthusiastic to recommend that Toby is fit for your organization and will be good for the position of Board of Directors at Queen's Club. Toby is successful but very adamant about making a difference and will voice his opinion. I feel that every successful organization needs someone to speak their mind and step up. He has high expectations of himself and the people he surrounds himself with.

I recommend Toby Foxcroft with the highest regards in terms of his passion, trustworthiness, energy, responsibility, amazing work ethic as well as a man of high character and integrity.
